KLAN VICTIMS TORTURED TESTIMONY SHOWS

FRANCE DELAYS MOVE ON RUHR

REPARATIONS BODY ORDERS COAL HEARING

Experts from Berlin to Appear Before League Commission Monday to Explain Failure to Deliver Coal

LITTLE CHANGE OF ACTION BY FRANCE BEFORE JANUARY 15TH

Germany Expected to Default on Payment Due Under Resumed Schedule

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—Germany will be given a hearing by the reparations commission before any action is taken on the French proposal to have her declared in default on coal deliveries, the commission decided Saturday.

When the question came before the commission it approved the German request for a hearing.

Berlin was immediately notified and asked to send experts so they can be heard by the commission next Monday.

Sir John Bradbury, the British member, attended the session. There was no discussion of the merits of the case. The Germans are entitled under the treaty of Versailles to present their arguments and Louis Barthou of France, the proponent of the default measure, offered no objection to granting the hearing.

The German contention, it is known, will be based on Germany's declared inability to deliver more than eight per cent of the amount of coal provided for in the commission's program for 1922, as she had to import coal in order to supply her own needs.

May Await Another Default

France and her remaining allies, Italy and Belgium, have abandoned any idea of a hasty entrance into the Ruhr region of Germany, and have settled back carefully to plan their coercive action against Germany.

There seemed little likelihood after Friday's conference between M. Poincare, the French premier; the Marquis Della Torretta, the Italian delegate, and M. Theunis and M. Jaspar, the representatives of Belgium, that any civil or military movements into Westphalia would be undertaken until after January 15.

Germany on that date, it is taken for granted, will default on the 500,000,000 gold marks due the old schedule of payments suspended during 1922.

Hope for U. S. Intervention

American suggestions, it is felt here, would have ample time to be presented to M. Poincare before he finally gives marching orders to engineers and customs officers and their military escort, whether the latter is to be merely a guard or an army.

Washington dispatches inspire a certain amount of hope that President Harding may offer some plan which would forestall independent action by France. It was learned in an authoritative source, however, that American officials in Europe see no chance for any American move being successful at this time short of a promise to cancel debts and arrange a loan, and have so informed the Washington government. Since cancellation and a loan seem out of the question under present conditions, it apparently is the belief of the Americans that it would be futile merely to offer advice.

Let France Test Scheme

The opinion apparently prevails here that the Washington government has been counseled to remain quiet until the French go into the Ruhr and have an opportunity to test the value of whatever plan they finally evolve. If the French plan proves a failure, as American observers think it will, it is pointed out that then would be the opportune moment to suggest to France that all the allies, with the United States, might usefully get together at an economic conference and reconsider the whole question.

Italy May Send Troops

Italy and Belgium lined up with France in opposing the British proposal, but how far Italy will go toward supporting a purely French plan seems to some of the political observers a matter of doubt. It is said Premier Mussolini may send a small Italian detachment into Germany as proof of his co-operation with France. Marquis Della Torretta, who represented Italy at the premiers' conference, left Friday night for Rome to confer with Mussolini.

OPINIONS PRO AND CON

CHICAGO, Ill.—French invasion of the Ruhr district in Germany would be a signal for a war which the United States could not evade, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, said in an address here Friday night. The United States, he said, should "use moral influence" to halt the threatened invasion.

* * * * * * * *

MANCHESTER, N. H.—So-called efforts to involve the United States in the German reparations controversy were denounced by United States Senator Moses in an address before the University club Friday night.

"If France insists upon marching into the Ruhr region it is none of our business," he said. "It is also none of our business to enforce the collection of the German indemnity."

* * * * * * * *

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Invasion of the Ruhr by France would be "wicked," in the opinion of Jean Longuet, French labor leader.

In an address before the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Friday night he said:

"I do not believe in the military occupation of the east bank of the Rhine. It would cost France all the money that Germany is paying at present and which ought to be employed to rebuild the devastated areas. I object even more strongly to the wicked suggestion of an invasion of German territory and more especially of the Ruhr district."

HOPES FOR COAL PEACE HINGE ON PARLEY IN EAST

Conference in Chicago Comes to End Without Agreement Having Been Reached

DIVERGENT INTERESTS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR FAILURE

Another Conference to be Held in New York Later in Month

WASHINGTON — Practically all danger of another coal strike in the unionized bituminous fields after April 1 of this year has now passed, in the opinion of the federal coal commission as expressed Saturday by Chairman John Hayes Hammond, and other members.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Peace in the coal mine industry—or another strike April 1—depends upon a conference to be held in New York, probably January 18.

This became evident late Friday, when, conforming to predictions, bituminous coal operators and mine union officials adjourned a three days' session at the Congress hotel without having established a basis for negotiating new contracts to replace the ones which expire March 31.

No official announcement of the New York meeting was made by either side, but it was learned from reliable sources that the parley will be held.

Revive Old Compact

This meeting, according to optimistic forecasts, will result in a revival of the four state agreement that was in effect for many years prior to the strike of April 1, 1922. Other states might then be expected, as in the past, to negotiate contracts similar to the four state compact.

About 150 mine owners, representing fifteen states, with a slightly lesser number of union conferees, attended the meeting which adjourned Friday. The "diversity of opinion and the divergence of interests" were held responsible for failure to agree.

This explanation was offered by the operators in a telegram to John Hays Hammond, chairman of President Harding's fact finding coal commission. The message, dispatched late Friday, was in reply to two telegraphic appeals Mr. Hammond had made to the joint meeting, urging upon the conference the necessity for averting another coup of the industry.

Extend Present Scale

The coal commission chairman, in a message Thursday, suggested that, rather than adjourn in disagreement, the meeting should authorize a continuance until April 1, 1924, of the arrangement under which the strike was ended last August.

The mine union leaders, who would be thus assured of prevailing wages for another year, are said to have voted to adopt this proposal, but the operators rejected it because "the present conference has no power, jurisdiction or authority to take such action."

IRISH CAPITAL HEARS FLUTTER OF PEACE DOVE

DUBLIN.—By The Associated Press.—A definite move toward peace between the Irish republicans and the Free Staters is under way, it was learned Saturday with the announcement that a peace convention will meet here Sunday with 150 delegates, two from each branch of the Sinn Fein organization in the city and county of Dublin, in attendance.

URGES HASTE ON PLAN TO RECALL TROOPS ON RHINE

WASHINGTON. — Declaring that "trouble may break out at any time," involving American forces on the Rhine, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, asked the senate to act at once on his resolution for return of the American troops to the United States.

The Missouri senator's attempt to get action on his proposal started another general debate on foreign relations and the reparations crisis, during which Senator Brandegee, republican, Connecticut, said he had read that France intended to occupy Coblenz, now American headquarters, and Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee replied that he understood the French plans regarding the Ruhr did not affect the Coblenz area.

TURKISH DELEGATES LEAVE SESSION OF NEAR EAST PARLEY

Action Taken as Protest Against Insistence Upon National Home for Armenians

LAUSANNE.—By The Associated Press.—The Turkish delegation to the Near East conference left the meeting hall Saturday as a protest against the allied insistence upon the establishment of an Armenian national home.

According to the Turkish account of the incident which produced a sensation in conference circles, Chairman Montagne of the sub-commission on minorities read a statement favoring the Armenian home and was followed by Sir Horace Rumbold of England who spoke in advocacy of establishing the home in Cilicia.

ROSEWOOD QUIET AFTER RACE WAR POSSES DISBAND

Abandon Search for Negro Whose Attack on Girl Started Trouble in Florida

ROSEWOOD, Fla.—Rosewood and the surrounding territory was quiet Saturday following the racial clash of Thursday night in which two white men and four negroes met death as the result of a search for negroes wanted in connection with an attack on a young white woman.

Posses who had been searching throughout the day and night for Jesse Hunter, an escaped negro convict believed to have attacked the young woman, had disbanded and no further trouble was expected.

HOOVER IS OFFERED FALL JOB BUT WILL STAY WHERE HE IS

WASHINGTON.—President Harding Saturday tendered Secretary of Commerce Hoover the place as secretary of the interior, which A. B. Fall will vacate on March 4, but after a conference it was decided that Mr. Hoover would retain his present position.

OLD POTATOES SELLING FOR NEW IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Old potatoes which were sold by a Minnesota grower for 21 cents a bushel, brought as high as $12 a bushel, masquerading as Florida new potatoes, on the local market in the holiday season, John H. Hay, deputy commissioner of agriculture, charged Friday.

NORTH SIDE FIRE BELIEVED TO BE WORK OF "FIREBUG"

Damages Wood Shed and Residence of Peter Peterson, 1927 Wood Street

ESTIMATED LOSS BY FIRE IS PLACED AT ABOUT $1,000

Fire Officials Confident that "Bug" is Responsible

THE north side "firebug" who has been operating in the upper end of North La Crosse was believed to have continued his maneuvers resulting in a fire involving nearly a $1,000 damage to the residence and out-buildings owned by Peter Peterson, 1927 Wood street, Friday night about 12 o'clock.

After thorough investigation fire officials have ascribed the cause to no other source than that the fire was deliberately started in the woodshed which is closely connected to the residence by a small building in between.

When the fire department arrived the woodshed was burned to the ground and the flames had spread from the intervening shed to the house, destroying a portion of the roof over the kitchen part, rooting itself in the main roof of the building. Damage of close to $1,000 was estimated by fire officials. It was said that a part of the loss would be covered by insurance.

Central police station received a call from J. Gilberg, George street grocer, about 12 o'clock reporting the fire in the 1900 block on Wood street. Officer Schroeder was sent to investigate the cause of the fire.

Fire officials are certain in their belief that the fire was started by the "bug" who is believed to have been responsible for five other fires in that locality since July 4.

OFFERS BILL TO PENALIZE BUYER OF OUTLAW LIQUOR

WASHINGTON.—A bill designed to help break up bootlegging by making the buyer of outlaw liquor equally guilty with the seller, was introduced Saturday by Representative Upshaw, democrat, Georgia, who recently charged in the house that public officials do not all practice what they preach in regard to prohibition.

HARDING NAMED HEAD OF BOSTON RESERVE BANK

BOSTON, Mass.—The appointment of W. P. G. Harding, former governor of the federal reserve board, as governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, was announced by the directors Saturday. He will assume his duties within a few weeks. He succeeds C. A. Morss, governor for the past five years, who asked to be retired because of his business interests.

NONE INJURED AS TRAIN GOES OFF THE TRACK

SAID TO HAVE STRUCK SWITCH LEFT OPEN BY FREIGHT CREW

Burlington Wrecker Used to Put Engine and Cars Back on Track

THE engine and four cars of west-bound train number 503 on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad left the track at Onalaska, near the Pickle works, about 6:40 Saturday morning, running for the distance of about a block along the right of way, tearing up the track and blocking the main line. It is said that the train ran into an open switch, which caused it to be thrown from the track.

No one was reported injured, or even badly shaken up. Three passenger coaches which were attached to the train remained on the track. They were brought back to La Crosse and sent out over the Milwaukee road as far as Winona.

The fact that the ground is solidly frozen is given by railroad men as the only reason the train did not tip over when it went off the track. The ground was so solid that the heavy trucks of the engine and cars made little more than a slight impression upon it. Members of the train crew stated that the jar of the wreck was so slight as to cause little concern. One man said he thought the train had struck an automobile on the crossing.

Struck Open Switch

Though no official report is as yet available on the cause of the wreck, current rumor has it that a freight crew passing over the track a short time before had left the switch of the passing track open and that the engineer of the passenger train did not perceive the red light until he was too close to stop.

Though none of the cars were overturned, they were zigzagged in such shape that they blocked traffic on the main line. However, the crew expected that the cars would be straightened out sufficiently to let the noon eastbound passenger train through on schedule time.

The wrecking crew of the Burlington railroad from Grand Crossing was rushed to the scene over the Green Bay tracks, and the Northwestern wrecker from Baraboo was expected to come to help in putting the engine and cars back on the track. Section crews were already at work repairing the damage to the right of way and transferring the mail to another car.

Train number 503 is due in La Crosse just before 6 a. m. It was a little late Saturday morning, leaving the depot here at 6:24. Charles Burdick of Baraboo was engineer of the train, and Frank McGirr of Baraboo conductor.

O'NEILL INELIGIBLE FOR PAROLE RULING OF U. S. ATTORNEY

Sentence Was Only for Year and Parole Cannot be Granted Says Daugherty

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Joseph P. O'Neill, democratic politician, who is now serving a year at the Milwaukee house of correction under a federal sentence for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act, was recommended for parole by the state board of control, but Attorney General Daugherty was forced to refuse to indorse the recommendation, because under the law federal prisoners must have been sentenced to more than a year to be eligible to parole.

Had O'Neill taken the original sentence of one year and a day, in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, which was later reduced by Judge F. A. Geiger to one year, he probably would have been paroled months ago, according to officials, as were Hyman R. Gordon and Joel Jacobson, former Kenosha saloonkeepers sentenced the same day to federal prison.

Judge Geiger had reduced the sentence to enable O'Neill to be confined in the house of correction, as only federal prisoners sentenced to one year or less may be imprisoned elsewhere than a federal prison. O'Neill pleaded to be sent to the house of correction so as to be near his wife who was ill.

STREETCARS DOWN LIGHTS ARE OFF UTILITY TROUBLES

Break in Transmission Line of Wisconsin Railway Light and Power Co. Friday Night

STREETCARS IDLE IN CITY FOR PERIOD OF THREE HOURS

Electric Lights off this Morning Due to Same Trouble

BOTH the Wis. Minn. Light and Power company and the Wisconsin Railway Light and Power company suffered breakdowns in power over night.

At 7:12 Friday night all streetcars in the city suddenly stopped and lights in the cars went out. For three hours and eight minutes the cars remained where they were when the power went off. After long waits, passengers got out and walked to their destinations or hired taxi cabs. Hundreds of persons who were down town at theaters or other amusement places, hiked home or waited until the power finally went on at 10:15.

Line Is Down

Superintendent Hedges said this morning the trouble was due to a break in the hydro-electric transmission line in the Black river bottoms between East Winona and Holmen. As soon as the break was reported, fires were started in the auxiliary steam plant of the company here, but difficulties were encountered in getting this plant in operation. The Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company helped out and the street cars were finally started at 10:45 and finished the night's run.

When the break occurred last evening lights were burned out at Hatfield, where the water power plant is located. At Onalaska lightning arresters were burned out and at La Crosse the oil switch burned out.

The damage was repaired overnight and today streetcars are operating again under water power.

Lights Go Out

A break in the transmission line of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company near Cochrane put out electric lights in La Crosse at 7:30 Saturday morning. Power was resumed twenty minutes later, Manager J. G. Felion reported.

WIDOW QUESTIONED IN MYSTERY DEATH OF BADGER FARMER

Last Saw Her Husband Alive on Morning of Day He Died, Mrs. Peters Says

WAUPUN, Wis.—Mrs. Hattie Peters, questioned Friday night by Fond du Lac county officials investigating the death of her husband, Willie Peters, declared that the last time she had seen him was at 5 o'clock Saturday morning the day of his death. She said she had been awakened about 5 o'clock by an alarm clock and had gone in the kitchen for a match. When she returned Peters was lying half dressed across the bed and when questioned said he "believed he was going crazy," the widow continued.

"I then went into the kitchen to get breakfast," she told the authorities.

"Shortly after that Mr. Peters came into the room. I asked him how he felt and he said he was better then. He went out of the house toward the barn. That was the last time I saw him alive."

Peters' body was found in a well at the farm where he lived. The coroner ordered an investigation and his vital organs were sent to Madison for an investigation to see if he had been killed by poison.

BOND FOR WIDOW OF SLAIN TEXAN FIXED AT $5,000

SAN AUGUSTINE, Texas.—Permanent bond of $5,000, pending the meeting of the grand jury in March, was agreed upon at 10:45 Saturday morning for Mrs. Lillian Knox, pretty 38-year-old widow of Hiram Knox, millionaire lumberman whom she is charged with slaying. The fixing of the bond ends the habeas corpus hearing before Judge Stark in the district court here.

HUNGER STRIKE BROKEN

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Jacob Vasuil, 29, confessed slayer of Nicholas Triff, 41, ended an eight-day hunger strike at noon Friday when he was forcibly fed by Under-Sheriff George Ostrom and Sept. John M. McAndrews, officials at the county jail, as announced last night.

EXPERTS TELL OF EXAMINING TWO BODIES

Men Subjected to "Specially Built Device for Inflicting Punishment" Declares Report of Pathologists

BODIES IDENTIFIED BY FIRST WITNESS AT FRIDAY SESSION

Knew Daniels by Clothes He Wore, Claims Man Who First Discovered Bodies

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Close observers see in the state's investigations in the Morehouse kidnapings and murders, not only an effort to punish the slayers of Daniel, world war veteran, and Thomas Richards, Mer Rouge citizens, but also a step in the direction of "tearing the mask off the klan," which Governor Parker has stated he has dedicated himself to do.

BASTROP, La.—Dr. C. W. Duval and Dr. J. A. Lanford, pathologists, in a report submitted at Saturday's session of the open hearing of masked band depredations in Morehouse parish expressed the opinion that the bodies of Watt Daniels and T. F. Richards were subjected to some "specially constructed device designed for inflicting punishment."

The report was based on an autopsy performed on the mutilated bodies of the two men after their discovery in Lake La Fourche, following a mysterious dynamite explosion on the night of December 21, four months after they were kidnaped by a masked band while enroute from this city to their homes in the nearby village of Mer Rouge.

The report in the case of Daniel stated that the body showed that certain parts had been cut away.

Injuries Caused Death

"The gross anatomical findings in this case, namely, lacerations, amputations and hemorrhages of certain of the tissues, in association with multiple comminated fractures of the bony structures, permit of the conclusion that some of these injuries were the primary, and the others the contributing cause of death," the pathologists said, in comment in concluding their report.

"The striking symmetry of the bone fractures and their relationship to injuries of the surrounding soft tissues suggest that the body was subjected to some specially constructed device designed for inflicting punishment."

The report in the case of Richards was similar to that of Daniel, with the exception that Richards had not been subjected to the cutting—a critical operation—noted in the case of the body described as that of Daniel.

Many Bone Fractures

"The bones of the arms and legs were broken in three places," Dr. Duval said. "The striking features of the fractures or breaks in the bones, always three in number in the arms and legs, were that they were about equi-distant. Indications were breaks produced by some force or forces that came from different directions."

"Were the injuries inflicted before death?" Attorney General Coco, who conducted the questioning, asked.

"Yes," Dr. Duval replied.

He explained that any one of several injuries noted could have caused death.

"Inhumanly Tortured"

"My idea is that the body was "most inhumanely tortured," Dr. Duval said in answer to another question.

"Dynamite explosions could not have produced the results found in the bodies," Dr. Duval declared. "They could not have caused the multiple fractures.

"Another thing, the breaks of the big bones of the two bodies—24 in all—were almost equi-distant."

"What would have been the result on the flesh had it been possible to produce the result on the bones by a dynamite explosion?" Dr. Duval was asked.

"It would have torn the bodies to pieces," Dr. Duval said.

The torso of the bodies were virtually intact, Dr. Duval said, as were the internal organs.

In addition to the crushing of the bones, Dr. Duval testified that a critical operation had been performed on Daniel with evidence to show that the part cut away had been removed by a sharp instrument.

J. C. Nettles, who found the headless bodies of Watt Daniels and T. F. Richards in Lake La Fourche, was called Friday as the first witness in the open hearing to determine responsibility for the alleged masked band outlawry in Morehouse parish and specifically the kidnaping and slaying

JOB!--the World's Greatest Poem

SAY SEVERAL LITERARY AUTHORITIES

WHY?—Primarily, because it is true to the poetic ideal—of touching the deepest strata of human experience through picturesque language symbols.

HERE!—We find imagination and faith co-operating in the presentation of a reasonable view of suffering in relation to "disinterested" religion. The heights and depths of human thought and emotion are here blended in dramatic arguments. Age long soul longings are more fully satisfied.

URGE ALLIED MORATORIUM

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Southern Commercial congress proposed for solution of the allied debts and reparations problem, a five-year moratorium and amortization over a period of sixty-six years.

MARYLAND IS WETTEST OF ALL THE STATES—AND IS PROUD OF HER TITLE

BALTIMORE.—Maryland, wettest state in the Union and proud of it, began the new year determined to fight any effort to force the Volstead law down its throat.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, who helped write the plank at Democratic Harding's recent conference on prohibition enforcement, said the Volstead law, besides "at best being a violation of the 10th amendment and cannot be enforced."

Cup it be enforced in Maryland? Not likely, with the mood feeling the way they are.

Personal Investigation

The NEA service correspondent, today with Prohibit Director Baltimore, the city, two months.

He visited bars, clubs, and restaurants, and found it not necessary to "step around the corner" to get a drink. Whisky was being sold openly in 1921. The same performance could be repeated now—and a day, or end without visiting the same place twice.

Beer is 2 cents a glass, 5 cents with a sandwich and a dime on draught and can be had in all cafes at 20 cents a large glass.

Whisky, too, is sold over the bar. Many prefer to get good whisky—the Maryland kind for which this city is famous—at "highballs" or by the quart at $2 for 50 cents.

Whisky is sold over the bar in half pint flasks. Beer can be ordered from the corner saloon by the case and will be delivered.

Bootlegger's Stock

Bootleggers? The correspondent found one without difficulty in a pool room near the city hall. He said he could supply any grade of whisky from pure bonded whisky at $40 a quart to "green whisky" at $2.50.

Purchase of a bottle disclosed it to be raw alcohol, rye extract, caramel coloring, glycerin and oils and spice.

Attempts at enforcement are practically futile. Maryland has no state enforcement law as provided in the Volstead law. Police do not make liquor raids.

Under a ruling of the state attorney general the only part police can take in a raid is to protect raiding federal agents when their lives are in danger. The ruling also bars constables, magistrates and other state and county officials from enforcement activities.

Another Dry Handicap

Another difficulty hampering dry agents is the ruling of the United States commissioner for this district that raids, even on trucks on highways are not legal unless made under a search warrant.

Liquor seized without a warrant is returned to the owner.

The commissioner will not issue a warrant without actual proof that the place to be raided has liquor concealed to sell. An agent's sworn statement that he saw liquor there is not enough. He must show the liquor.

The federal dry forces here trying to stem the flood consist of about 100 aided by a "flying squad" of dry agents periodically from Washington.

Crime has increased. Police figures for 1922 now being compiled, show approximately 60,000 arrests. With the exception of 1918 this is the highest in Baltimore's history. Totals for preceding years are: 1921, 54,602; 1920, 41,988; 1919, 50,027.

GOV. ALBERT C. RITCHIE

Figures just compiled by the Prudential Insurance Company on 28 American cities show murder is increasing in Baltimore faster than any city. The yearly rate is 14.3 per 100,000 of population.

The state's sentiment is best expressed in the attitude of the Maryland Society opposed to the Prohibition Amendment. The members took the stand that Governor Ritchie's anti-Volstead statement following the president's conference was too mild.

WHY WE HAVE HORNS ON AUTOS

Bells have for centuries been used on horse traffic, and more recently on cycles. To herald the approach of a motor-car with its greater speed, some distinctive sound was needed. Extra loud bells, it is true, such as are employed on fire engines, might have been used, but pandemonium in a crowded street would be unbearable.

The horn, therefore, the perfected descendant of the old post-boy's horn, was the obvious instrument, and possessed, in addition, the advantage of throwing its sound forwards, instead of all round, as a bell does.

So by custom we came to accept the horn as the distinctive warning of a motor. In parts of the continent, indeed, it is illegal to affix a horn to any other kind of vehicle.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 percent air and 6 percent common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, C. L. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Adv.

LET PEOPLE VOTE ON WARS PROPOSES NEW GOPHER SOLON

Successor of Volstead in Congress Has Extensive Program of Legislation to Offer

BENSON, Minn.—Before the United States enters any future wars, the Rev. O. J. Kvale of Benson, elected to congress over Andrew J. Volstead, author of the prohibition enforcement act, is in favor of a national referendum on the matter.

This is one of the "planks" he will support during his term of office, he told The Associated Press. As for prohibition, he declared it was not an issue in his campaign, but is willing to go on record as "just as dry as Volstead, with perhaps a little to spare."

Here are some of the declarations Representative Kvale stands for:

Repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, and the enactment of "a just and equitable transportation law."

Strict enforcement of all laws, including the prohibition enforcement act.

A marketing program "of real co-operation and putting an end to control by monopolists and speculators of the markets."

A reconstruction of the Federal Reserve and Federal Farm Loan systems "so as to take the control of money and credits from Wall street speculators, and make the credit of the nation available upon fair terms and without discrimination to business men, farmers, and home builders."

Reduction of federal taxes, "by curtailment of the eight hundred million dollars now annually expended for the army and navy, recovery of the hundreds of millions stolen from the treasury by war profiteers, and by collection of accumulated interest upon the twelve billion dollar loan to foreign governments."

Increasing taxes on large incomes; making inheritance and income taxes; making inheritance and income taxes pay the war debt; adjusted compensation for soldiers paid from excess profits tax; protection of women and children in industry; conservation and national control of national resources, and a referendum on war.

Significant

AN interesting exchange of views was that in which President Harding caused to be transmitted to President Poincare of France the proposal of Germany that the latter two nations should enter into an agreement not to wage war against each other for a period of ten years, and in no event to enter into war until the step, in each country, had received a popular mandate at a plebiscite.

In rejecting the proposal President Poincare, after pointing out that the French constitution did not permit its acceptance, said that France and Germany had already agreed not to war upon each other in the treaty of Versailles and added that France was also bound by the preamble of the League of Nations, which he regarded as sufficient guarantee. This preamble included an obligation not to engage in war, and Article II of the Covenant, he observed, "Specifies that any war, or threat of war, affecting any member of the league becomes automatically a matter of concern for the whole league, which shall take any action deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the nations."

One may indulge in a smile in President Poincare's reliance upon this covenant, in view of the fact that contemporaneously with the publication of his statement cables all over the world told of the imminence of war between Great Britain and Turkey, if indeed such a war had not already begun.

Interesting as this situation appears to be, perhaps Americans will have keener ears for the news that a conservative republican president found enough significance in the proposal for a war plebiscite to have consented to convey the proposal from one sister nation to another. Ten years ago no responsible statesman would have felt he could convey such "heresy" without loss of dignity. It appears that, in our slow and cautious way, we are thinking over some things about our so-called civilization, which might very well be amended.

Mule and Gas

A MILWAUKEE man, Mintzlaff, struck three women with his automobile. One is dead, another dying. He was drunk. When told at the police station that he had killed a woman, and perhaps two, he broke down and wept.

This is the tragedy of booze and the auto. From his deportment it may be guessed that Mintzlaff is one of the last men who would think of injuring another, not to say kill. He is a tender sort of chap, and—sober—has a keen sense of responsibility.

This doesn't help much. His good qualities can not restore the lives which drunkenness cost. No doubt the penalty he will pay will be about the same he would have paid had he been a hardened and reckless character. Even discriminating judges find it difficult to distinguish between hootch and gasoline, and the police are usually called upon to detect a mixture of the two. Together they spell tragedy.

And what of the moonshiner who sold the stuff—will he go free? Is not he the real murderer, and Mintzlaff but an accessory after the fact?

"Having Eyes, Sees Not"

THERE are evidences that Will H. Hays, movie dictator, has been somewhat unpleasantly surprised by the reception of his proposal to restore "Fatty" Arbuckle to the screen as a "Christmas gift." Mr. Hays now announces that Arbuckle probably will not be seen in pictures, but may be given a job as a movie director.

May we not suggest that in case Mr. Arbuckle actually directs pictures, his name be omitted from the screen announcements? Perhaps a nom de plume would do.

It matters little whether Arbuckle appears in pictures, or as a director of pictures, as long as his name or his face appears in connection with them. For either one would remind the audience of unpleasant things with which it identifies Mr. Arbuckle. Possibly we can have no quarrel with filmdom if Hollywood wants to embrace Mr. Arbuckle within its reputedly licentious domains, provided the fitting alliance shall remain a secret.

For Mr. Hays' own good, whatever is done with Mr. Arbuckle should remain a confidential matter. Were Arbuckle never heard of again, it would take a long time to erase from Mr. Hays' reputation as a competent arbitrator of photoplay morals, the smear of his notorious "Christmas present". What it cost him in public confidence was a pretty penny. No doubt the Arbuckle decision will be recited in every legislature where censorship legislation is sought, as evidence that the highest authority in the picture business does not possess the moral sense necessary to be its own censor.

The answer to this is the action of exhibitors who follow the dictum of the Wisconsin Theatre Owners' Association, that they can get along very well indeed without Mr. Arbuckle. The exhibitor must be his own censor. His ability is being favorably demonstrated.

You in 1923

WHAT does 1923 hold in store for you? Better things in a money way, probably, for the outlook is that there will be more prosperity to be divided among the American people. As for other things that go to make up happiness, a good thought with which to start the new year is that life is what we make it, and real happiness a condition of heart and mind. Ahead, then, with pep! Time is giving us a new deal with the cards. Forget mistakes of 1922 and begin afresh.

The start of a new year is always fascinating, because it opens the door of the unknown. The curtain rises on a new act of the eternal drama, life. The plot is not cut and dried in advance. You, as one of the actors, help shape it. Many who starred in previous acts will fade to the back of the stage—or be carried out through the wings, stilled forever. The lead roles are always changing. What new Mansfield or Irving or Bernhardt will spring into the limelight and fame in 1923? No one knows. The future is veiled.

More than any year of the past, 1923 holds promise for great spectacular events in man's penetration of the unknown. A powerful undercurrent became evident in humanity during 1922—a spiritual wakening, a renewed interest in the hereafter, in our purpose here on earth, and that mysterious depth known as the subconscious mind. Psycho-analysis and similar phenomena, incorrectly called "crazes," all are leading up to some sensational new development for humanity at large.

Shall we, in 1923, talk with Mars or Venus by radio or mental waves? Shall we discover new psychic powers that have been lying dormant in us, waiting until Destiny is ready for us to use them? All of us have been vaguely conscious that such latent powers exist. Occasionally they are manifested by mysterious happenings that no one can satisfactorily explain. The world war, titanic struggle, was the forerunner of something new and tremendous. Great spiritual or psychic forces shook civilization to its foundation. Leading up to —what? We may know, before the end of 1923. Forward, across the threshold of the unknown.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Rev. Father Sluyter has been presented with a gold-headed cane by the men of St. Joseph's cathedral as a mark of their esteem. The presentation took place at a program held in connection with the golden jubilee celebration now going on.

Mr. Wetzel has moved his family and household goods from Spencer, Iowa, to 1541 Berlin street.

The first trip with team and sleigh over the ice on the Mississippi river this year was made today by Conrad Richards, a farmer, who drove from Brownsville to La Crosse on "winter's bridge." Mr. Richards was accompanied by several members of his family. Richards has been the first to make the trip for several years.

By way of starting the new year right, J. A. McManman, manager of the Wisconsin Telephone company today announced that all operators employed at the local office for a year or more will receive an increase in salary of ten percent.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

By breaking the city 120 ball bowling record last evening at Germania hall by bowling 2695 at nine pins Will Ott won the gold medal given by the bowling clubs connected with Germania.

Bernard O'Connell has purchased the L. P. Raley property on South Seventh street for $3,450.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mosher of Avon street will celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary by entertaining the new Century Cinch club at their home.

The price of wood has advanced materially in the local market. Dry cord wood brings $5.00 while green wood sells at $4.50 a cord.

Miss Jane Beisel has gone to Texas and Mexico for the winter.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Louis Smith, formerly in partnership with his father in the grocery business, has taken a position with Mons Anderson as bill clerk for the shipping department.

W. G. Gillespie of Kilbourn City has taken over the management of the Singer Sewing Machine office during the illness of W. W. Bennett.

Notwithstanding the fact that the winter cholera is rapidly abating in La Crosse there are a number of traveling men who will not enter the city for fear of carrying the disease to their homes or catching it themselves.

L. Blumentritt, postmaster of New Hartford, Minn., killed a wildcat which measured three and a half feet. He brought it to this city and disposed of it to Mr. Casper Newburg who will have it stuffed and placed in his store.

Hearts and Hoboes

By IRVING KING

To his fellow-hoboes he was Yorkey; you would simply have called him a tramp, but to himself he was the King of All Outdoors and the twittering birds of morning were attending the king's levee. Yorkey had sought his rest the night before in a grove of locust trees beside a babbling brook, and now the morning light touched with new beauty the gently moving leaves and caused the dew upon the white and clustered blossoms to shine and sparkle, while all the air was heavy with their sweet and drowsy perfume.

The King of All Outdoors came out of his slumber gradually and lay for a while with half-closed eyes a little uncertain as to what part of his domains he had awakened in, for the heavy odor of the locusts had something tropical in it which suggested the orange flowers and magnolias of his southern plantations by Florida or Louisiana shores. Then a yawn or two, some stretching of his powerful limbs and Yorkey was awake. But he still kept for a while his recumbent position unwilling to break the spell of the beautiful morning by rash exertion, perfectly happy and perfectly satisfied with his lot.

He would not have been in such a wholly blissful state, however, had he foreseen that fate has assigned him that day a mission to perform, a responsibility to assume; for why should the king of all outdoors be burdened with missions and responsibilities? Such things were for his subjects, who scattered far and wide throughout the land, fed him on his royal progresses and clothed him—after a fashion.

At length Yorkey arose, washed in the brook scantily, drank of it copiously and struck the road to mooch for breakfast. He did not stop at the first house he came to, but chose with nice discrimination as to place and time. The smoke of morning fires arose from the chimneys of many homes, but he who desires breakfast should not interrupt the cook.

He walked leisurely, resting at intervals in some inviting nook. Finally, time and place appearing suitably to be conjoined he chose a large white house, half farmhouse half "country resident," standing well back from the road. As a rule it is at the back door that handouts should be commandeered but when a "mark" is seen in proximity with the front door, the front door is naturally indicated. A middle-aged woman with a pleasant but weak face sitting on the front piazza was to Yorkey a legible sign reading "Apply here." As he approached a young lady clad all in flimsy, fluffy white came out of the house and joined the older woman. The girl was auburn-haired, blue eyed and red-cheeked. Yorkey took but a languid interest in what he called "the seed;" but Marcella Chapin captured his admiration—she fitted so well into the general esthetic scheme of the morning.

The hobo got the "poor man" and the "Tell them I sent you" which he expected from the elder lady and started for the kitchen door. A driveway ran from the road up by one side of the house, and as Yorkey passed kitchenward a horseman, finely mounted and dressed in the very latest of riding togs, cantered up and dismounting, passed on to the piazza with a courtly bow to the ladies. He was a dark man of about thirty-five whose black and piercing eyes had just a touch of the sinister in them; and he bestowed upon Yorkey as he passed him a casual and contemptuous glance. That glance stirred in the hobo dim recollections—and there was an impression as of something unpleasant in the past.

The immediate business of that vast improvement on a hand-out a setdown, however, wholly engrossed his attention until he heard the servants discussing the dark equestrian. He was, Yorkey gathered, Mr. Arthur Rivers who leased the old Crawford place, about five miles away, a bachelor of wealth living a retired life. He had lived at the Crawford place for nearly two years now, and had been a suitor for the hand of Marcella who though somewhat dazzled by the accomplished man of the world, had not yet broken with her old sweetheart, Adrian Collins, gentleman-farmer, three miles up the road.

"But she's a-waverin', she's a-waverin,' said the cook.

"Humph!" said the chauffeur, who had strolled in. "Perhaps Rivers is after Miss Marcella's money."

"Oh, as to that," chorused the women, "there's no doubt but what Rivers is rich."

Having thanked the cook for his meal, Yorkey started for the front of the house to thank the madam; he had a little formula which was frequently worth a quarter in cash. But this time he spieled no spiel, only slunk off down the drive. For the dark horseman was gone, the younger lady was in tears and the elder lady in a rage. "Oh, I can't! I can't!" he heard Marcella sob; and her mother replied: "You must, and that's all about it."

Yorkey walked a little distance down the road and sat down to rest upon a mossy bank. A short rest and perhaps forty winks is always in order after a gorge.

The hobo's eyelids were gently drooping when suddenly one of those pigeonholes of memory flew open.

Vividly into Yorkey's mind came a day, three years away in time and a thousand miles away in distance, in which he saw again the dark horseman of the morning. As he mused, Marcella came out of her gate and walked down the road to a great oak tree, where she stood as if waiting for some one.

Presently a runabout, driven by a stalwart young man of honest face, came up the road and stopped under the trysting tree. The young man jumped out, caught Marcella in his arms and kissed her.

Yorkey walked toward the lovers, who were now engaged in earnest conversation. "Excuse me, ladies and gents," said Yorkey, as he came up; p'raps I ain't right to butt in, but doin' as I'm as hostile to this here Shiny Dick as yous be, I certainly t'ink it's up to me to wise youse regardin' that same gay cat. Am I on?" Marcella and Adrian gazed at Yorkey in amazement. His intentions were evidently friendly, but what was he trying to say?

"Shiny Dick?" said Adrian; "who is Shiny Dick?"

"Yous call him Rivers, or sut'in' like dat," replied Yorkey.

"Oh!" They became interested at once and listened eagerly to the hobo's tale, making him repeat it several times, for Yorkey spoke in a strange tongue, in the language of Hoboland. It appeared that about three years before a bank employe in a western city guilty of forgery and embezzlement, had joined for purposes of concealment a band of hoboes of whom Yorkey was one. Many criminals seek asylum in Hoboland, some make their homes there. But there is a line of demarkation between the criminal and the genuine hobo, though the hobo as a rule never betrays them. The amateur tramp who comes and goes, who inhabits Hoboland only at intervals, is called a gay-cat and is looked down upon by the real hobo. The "shiver" joined by the thief established a "hangout" near a Missouri town and sent the criminal, who had acquired the "moniker" of Shiny Dick, with their begged and hoarded money to gather material for a "slop-up," or general drunk. The town being a "horstile" one, where they "timbered" tramps, it was considered that Shiny Dick, with his good clothes and winning ways, might gather supplies with a safety not possible to a "regular."

But Shiny Dick walked off with the hobo treasure chest and never came back; the slop-up had to be indefinitely postponed. Yorkey was able to name the city in which this gay cat had committed his embezzlements and forgeries; but not for those but for the rape of the hobo treasure chest, and slop-up that never was, was he seeking revenge. Having fulfilled his mission Yorkey resisted all bribes, commands, entreaties to stay and see the thing through, and slouched away.

"Oh, Adrian! we are saved," cried Marcella.

"Saved!" returned Adrian. "You don't suppose I'd have let you be sacrificed to that Rivers person, do you? I came here today prepared to rush you away to the nearest parson and marry you out of hand. But out of regard to the conventionalities we'll postpone the wedding a few days while I investigate the affairs of Shiny Dick."

And did Adrian investigate those same affairs? He did not. When the next morning broke the Crawford place was deserted; its inhabitant had vanished, whither, no one knew. For in the casual glance which Rivers had bestowed on the passing hobo he had recognized Yorkey. Craftily screening himself behind trees and bushes after tying his horse in a thicket, he had trailed the tramp and had seen and partially heard the interview between the hobo and the lovers. His hasty hegira followed. The whole adventurous story of Shiny Dick from the time he left the tramp's hangout with the treasure chest did not come out until years after, when he was arrested in Canada for his part in a gigantic swindle. It was a wonder story of the underworld, and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Collins read it in the papers. "They can say what they please about Mr. Rivers," remarked Mrs. Chapin; "but I always found him a perfect gentleman."

Father John's Medicine Has Had 67 Years of Success

Backed by its history of more than sixty-seven years of success for colds and coughs Father John's Medicine is now the standard family remedy in thousands of homes all over the country as well as in many hospitals and institutions.

The fact that Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous narcotic drugs in any form is one of the best reasons why it is safe for all the family to take whenever they have a cold or cough or need a pure food tonic.

PLAN NEW BRIDGE AT WABASHA TO CROSS THE RIVER

WABASHA, Minn.—At a meeting of the Booster club the matter of building a high bridge to span the Mississippi river here was seriously discussed and committees were appointed to look into the matter.

The committee was instructed to look into the matter thoroughly and make a report to the club at a later meeting. This project, it was declared, would mean a lot to the city of Wabasha and vicinity, and would also affect the territory on the Wisconsin side of the river.

What the cost of such a structure would be was not stated, but it is declared that the committee will get all facts and figures possible.

The name of the Booster club was changed to the Wabasha Commercial meeting.

Vancouver Island was discovered by Captain Vancouver of the British navy, 1792.

GUARD GRAVE WHERE CZAR'S JEWELS ARE BELIEVED CACHED

Treasury Agent Thought to be Seeking Permit to Open Grave of Sailor

NEW YORK.—The grave of James Jones, a seaman at the National cemetery at Cypress Hills, Brooklyn, was guarded Saturday by cemetery employes because of reports that William B. Williams, special agent of the treasury department would seek legal permission to open the coffin to see if any part of the Russian crown jewels had been secreted there.

The jewels, according to a copyrighted story by the Chicago Daily News, were smuggled into this country in September, 1920, in the coffin of Jones, who died on a transport at Gibraltar August 20, 1920, while the ship was on her way from Vladivostok.

The treasury agents got an inkling of the story at the time and it has been established that the transport was guarded upon her arrival here, but the jewels were not found. The coffin was kept on board for twenty-three days and its occupant could be found if ever buried in Cypress Hills.

FISH PLAY LIKE PUPS

Fish confined in tanks at aquariums are frequently seen to pick up small stones and carry them around in play. In their native element they do the same thing with shells and frequently two or more fishes will be seen moving stones from one place to another. Observers of fish have seen their engage in a game and their actions are not unlike those of the dogs romping over a field chasing each other. The fish play with a piece of grass which is sorted for their purpose. One will take it in its mouth and dash away with it chased by another. The first one is overtaken and the bit of grass wrested from it and in this way it passes from one to another until all the fish have had it. They have been known to play for hours in this manner.

THE ORIGIN OF A QUEER WORD

Grouch, examining ill will or resentment against a person of condition, or grumbling discontent, dates from 1400. "As a synonym for ill humor or bad temper it is a colloquialism common to the United States." "The word sprang up from the fertile bed of American patois; it was the spontaneous outcrop of the streets. Like Topsy, it 'just growed.' Let's make one, and say that it is a contraction and combination of the words 'growl and speech'—the first sound of the one joined to the latter sound of the other. That really fits the case. The man with a grouch begins almost every speech with a growl."—Eugene Thwing in "The Christian Herald." The words grouch and grouchy are colliquialisms.

U. S. ARCHITECTS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF MAN WHO PLANNED FAMOUS CATHEDRAL

CHICAGO, Ill.—American architects are preparing to observe next February the 200th anniversary of the death of Sir Christopher Wren, famous English astronomer and architect, who has left an ineffible impression on American architecture.

Sir Christopher died in London February 25, 1723, and is buried in St. Paul's Cathedral, which he planned.

The American observances will be consistent with the celebration in England where the Royal Institute of British Architects has set aside the entire week beginning February 20, 1923, as Commemoration Week in honor of Wren. A procession will march from Mansion House to St. Paul's to hold memorial services in the cathedral, followed by a visit to the crypt, where the president of the Royal Institute will lay a wreath on Wren's tomb.

Treasures of many learned societies will be exhibited during the week.

Wren Spires All Over U. S.

In this country there is hardly a city that can not boast one or more Wren spires on its churches. The White House is distinctly Wren; the national capitol shows his influence; Independence hall, Philadelphia, Pa., with its pedestal motif of one tall arch window, flanked by square lower ones, is Wren. In Boston the state capitol, designed by Charles Bulfinch, who drew his inspiration from Wren, and the old South and Notre churches are among the notable Wren examples.

Christ church, Alexandria, Va., where Washington worshipped, is another Wren example, designed by a James Wren, who was said to be a descendant of the man who overthrew the severe Gothic style with the lighter and more graceful French and Italian classic types. The records of Christ church show James Parsons originally contracted to build it for 600 pounds sterling, but threw up the contract, and it was finally completed by Col. John Carsl'le for an additional 220 pounds, making the total cost of the edifice less than $3,000.

Washington paid 36 pounds and 10 shillings for his pew, the only one in the church which remains in its original state.

New York boasts one of finest Wren spires in the country on St. Paul's chapel, which stands with its face turned away from Broadway. Other noted Wren edifices are seen on Trinity church, Newport; the First Baptist church of Providence; Christ church, Philadelphia; the First Christian church, Hartford; Park street church, Boston; First Congregational, Lyme, Conn., and others. In Chicago the last example of the Wren type is St. Paul's of the Midway. Here, however, the spire has never been completed.

Dominates Colonial Building

Early colonial architecture in New England and the south was practically all Wren. The Virginia mansions with their red brick, stone trimming and classic columns followed closely the same motif Sir Christopher used in rebuilding Hampden Court, one time home of Cromwell when he was protector of the commonwealth.

Original y an astronomer, Sir Christopher Wren, born in 1632, received his opportunity as an architect when the great fire destroyed most of London in 1666. He designed the great fire monument known in England simply as "The Monument." It stands at the intersection of Pie corner and Pudding Lane, where the fire was supposed to have started.

Besides St. Paul's cathedral, Wren was the designer of Louden Bridge, the western towers of Westminster Abbey, the libraries of Trinity college at Cambridge and Queen's college at Oxford, and many of the 53 churches of the old City of London. Eighty-six city churches were destroyed in the great fire, but many were not rebuilt. Eighteen of Wren's city churches have been destroyed and 19 others have been selected for demolition, because of the lack of congregations in the city and the immense value of the ground they occupy. The finest examples, however, are to be preserved.

Wren's inspiration for a classic revival came from another great architect, Lingo Jones. Wren's work shows more of a French influence, as compared to the pure Italian of Jones, partly due to the fact that Wren was present and studied the building of the Louvre in Paris, while he never visited Italy.

ORPHEUM, VODVIL BILL AT RIVIERA ESPECIALLY GOOD

"Something New Beneath the Sun" is the title of the act, which Ray Shannon and Meyer Gordon will present at the Riviera Sunday. Their offering will consist of songs, tunes and talk hinged together in an original manner. Pep and personality are the twin attributes of these two entertainers.

A barrel of fun will be uncorked by Norris' Monkey Laborers, one of the most novel acts in vaudeville. The animals represent hod carriers, mortar mixers and other laborers seen in construction of a downtown office block. They take an actual interest in the construction work, it is said, and cause a scene of commotion when the building collapses. Audiences particularly are asked to watch the monkeys at the well and the clock.

Miss Mindell Kingston and George Ebner will have a corking good act, which they call "This and That." It gives Ebner an opportunity for some unusual imitations of horns. He is declared to be an excellent comedian. Miss Kingston will be found easy to gaze upon, and she possesses a good voice.

Tribute to Jewish Chanters

Caruso is quoted as saying: "I have discovered that the Jewish chanters employ a rather peculiar method of intonation and vocalization in their service. They are unexcelled in the art of shifting the melody, of picking up a new key, of modulating their ritual chant, and of overcoming vocal difficulties that may occur in the words rather than in the melody itself. For this reason I visit Jewish synagogues whenever I have the opportunity."—Merrill Herald.

MOVIES

"THE DANGEROUS AGE"

An original story, entitled "The Dangerous Age," by Frances Irene Reels, furnished the theme for the next John M. Stahl production, which is coming to the Rivoli theater on Sunday. The author also wrote "The Woman in His House," which Mr. Stahl likewise directed. J. G. Hawks and Bess Meredyth collaborated with Mr. Stahl in the preparation of the scenario for "The Dangerous Age."

It centers about a married couple of forty. The woman essentially a good mother, has given up romance and devoted herself to the care of her children and her household. But the man still likes to think of himself as young.

Failing to interest his wife in the theater, dancing and other forms of gayety, he looks elsewhere for his companions. Thrills, comedy and dramatic suspense all figure in the plot before the big climax in which the man realizes that his home and family mean everything to him after all.

"KICK IN" THRILLING

Anyone who likes a photoplay packed with thrilling action, with a story that is moving from the first scene to the last fadeout, and who would like to see Betty Compson, Bert Lytell, May McAvoy and Gareth Hughes heading a wonderful cast in parts that suit them to perfection, will do well to go to the Riviera theater and see "Kick In," a new Paramount picture which opened there with extraordinary success last night. "Kick In" is one of those crook stories which is peculiarly suited for picturization and George Fitzmaurice, who directed it, has made a photoplay that will entrance and charm picture fans the world over.

"UNDER TWO FLAGS"

"I hate you! You smile, and Victor loves you; I risk my life and it doesn't count—that's why I hate you!"

Cigarette, daughter of the regiment, and coveted of hundreds of men, stamped out of the room. Her princess she had come to kill smiled sadly. Outside Cigarette stopped and sobbed:

"Mon Victor, I want you, and she holds you in the hollow of her hand! It isn't fair, it isn't fair!"

This one brief scene gives you just the faintest idea of the thrills, the suspense and powerful action that marks Priscilla Dean's interpretation of the role of Cigarette in "Under Two Flags," which is now playing at the Rivoli theater.

Dramatic as is the story of Ouida's famous masterpiece the acting of Miss Dean, the direction of Tod Browning, and the strength of the supporting cast do much towards making the screen version far greater than the stage play ever was.

"THE IMPOSSIBLE MRS. BELLEW"

One of the most powerful dramas seen on the screen of the Riviera theater is "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew." This feature de luxe presents Gloria Swanson in the strongest and most compelling role of her screen career. Her performance in the role of a wronged young wife who sought to forget, and who eventually found another and greater happiness, is most artistic. As a mother, torn from the child she loved dearer than life, she exhibits emotional talent of a high order. Conrad Nagel, as the young novelist, who alone saw the good that was in "Mrs. Bellew," gives a splendid characterization. "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew" will be at the Riviera Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

"BACK HOME AND BROKE"

Wholesome, sparkling and censor-proof is "Back Home and Broke," Thomas Meighan's new Paramount picture, which opened at the Strand theater last night, for a two days' run.

George Ade, the widely known humorist, is the author of the story, which is rich in human interest. It is one of those artistically simple tales that now brings a fog at the heart, now opens the wells of laughter and keeps you generally in a delightful state of thrill and suspense.

The lovable Lila Lee is seen as Mr. Meighan's leading woman once again. Others in the cast are Charles Abbe, Florence Dixon, Frederick Burton and Eddie Borden.

"TAKE IT FROM ME"

With the same cast, chorus and production that resulted in capacity houses for over a year at the Forty-fourth Street theater in New York, five months at the Studebaker theater in Chicago, "Take it from Me" will appear at the La Crosse theater Saturday, matinee and night, January 13.

Joseph M. Gaites, the producer, promises truly funny comedians, clever dancers and singers, and the same bevy of charming femininity that made both New York and Chicago sit up and take notice.

The gowning is described as exquisite while the scenic effects are all that could be desired. As to the music, one song hit follows song hit, so all that remains for you to do is to "try nd get in."

"Take it from Me" goes direct from La Crosse to the Davidson theater, Milwaukee, opening there the following Sunday.

MILWAUKEE MAN IS APPOINTED MEMBER OF ATHLETIC BODY

Ralph A. Wettstein Named by Gov. Blaine to Athletic Commission

MADISON, Wis.—The appointment of Ralph A. Wettstein, manager of the Merrill theater, Milwaukee, to be a member of the state athletic commission, was announced Saturday morning by Governor John J. Blaine. Mr. Wettstein succeeds Dr. C. H. Morter of Milwaukee. The governor also announced the re-appointment of George Quin to succeed himself on the board of trustees of Milwaukee county for county institutions.

The state athletic commission is one of the important boards of the state operating in the larger cities having complete supervision over all boxing contests. As these contests pay a license fee to the state it has become of the utmost importance as one of the agencies of government and assuring a clean sport.

NATIONAL GAUGE TEAM REGAINS 3RD PLACE IN LEAGUE

Posting "The Store With a Conscience" in three straight games the National Gauge bowlers regained third place in the city league standing, after sitting in fourth place for a week.

The Montagues found easy meat in the Collegians, cellar champs, and pealed themselves of the chance to add an extra game to their already big margin over the Arenz Shoes by winning three straight, while the latter was only able to take two from the Krauses.

The Shirvens and Maders won two out of three from the La Crosse Club 60's and Rivoli Electrics.

SCOTT HIGH GRID SQUAD LEAVES COAST FOR HOME

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The football squad of Scott High school of Toledo, Ohio, which on New Year's day defeated the Corvalis, Ore., high school team, left Friday for the east after a visit as guests of the Los Angeles Athletic club.

Dr. Neil, in charge of the thirty-one players, said that the Scott high school would guarantee $5,000 to any Pacific coast high school team which would go to Toledo next season for a game with Scott. Only two members of the present team will be missing next fall, and one of the strongest high school teams in the United States is expected to be developed, Dr. Neil added.

DULUTH, Minn.—Duluth won from Milwaukee, 6 to 1, in a hockey game.

CONFERENCE BASKET SEASON OPENS SATURDAY NIGHT WITH SIX OF TEN TEAMS IN ACTION

CHICAGO, Ill.—With six of the ten teams in action, the Western Conference basketball season will open Saturday night. Illinois will face Michigan at Ann Arbor, Wisconsin will meet Northwestern at Evanston, while Iowa will take the floor against Chicago here.

The 1922 championship was won by Purdue with Wisconsin and Michigan sharing honors for second place. Michigan appears to be one of the strongest contenders for the 1923 title.

GAR WOOD TO TRY FOR NEW WORLD'S SPEEDBOAT MARK

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Garfield A. Wood of Detroit, Mich., owner of the speedboats Miss America I and Miss Detroit VI, which defeated Pacific coast craft in a series of races here, will attempt to break the international mile record for dual motored boats with the Miss America I, in the the channel off Long Beach Saturday.

In attempting to break the record, which is 76 miles an hour, established by Commodore Wood in the Miss America I at Algonac, Mich., this admirably system will be used. This calls for six trials over a mile course. The average time for the six trials will be acknowledged as official by the Yachtsmen Association of America, the American Power Boat association, and the Athletic Club Motorboat Racing association, under whose auspices the affair wil be staged.

KEARNS-DEMPSEY PURCHASE $250,000 APARTMENT HOUSE

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, with his manager, Jack Kearns, have closed a deal for an apartment house in the fashionable section of Los Angeles, the price being $250,000, it was announced here Friday. "I am buying this apartment house purely as a speculative venture," said Dempsey, "and I expect to get fair returns.

JACK KEARNS TO CONFAB WITH TEX ON PROPOSED BOUTS

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion boxer, plans to leave Sunday night for New York to meet Tex Rickard, promoter, in regard to bouts. Fights under consideration include one between Dempsey and Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, and one between Dempsey and either Bill Brennan, Joss Willard, Joe Beckett or Tom Gibbons.

POOL CHAMPION BESTS HUESTON IN CUE MATCH

CHICAGO, Ill.—Champion Ralph Greenleaf romped home an easy winner from Tom Hueston of St. Louis, former champion, 600 to 333, in their pocket billiard match, which finished on Thursday.

Starting the afternoon session, Greenleaf had a commanding lead of 469 to 204, and after a rather desultory exhibition he warmed to his work and concluded the block with as fine a run of 76 as it is possible to see. It was hoped he would run over the century mark, but after breaking the bunch on his first shot at night to continue an unfinished run, he failed to break the bunch on his second shot, and then, trying to repeat, again missed and scratched into a corner pocket, making his total run 77.

Greenleaf led at the end of the afternoon session, 469 to 204.

Greenleaf, with a scratch deducted, had made one point on the final block and then Hueston, playing in his best form, counted runs of 54 and 41, making 95 points while Ralph was getting his single. After that he fell off, while Greenleaf galloped along with runs of 53, 27, 24, 19 and 17.

BRITTON WILL ATTEMPT COMEBACK STARTS TRAINING

NEW YORK.—Jack Britton former holder of the world's welterweight boxing title, has started training for a comeback. The veteran ring general plans a campaign which he hopes will lead to a return match with Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., who captured the title from him in a bout at Madison Square Garden. He is tentatively matched to box Bobby Barrett of Clifton Heights, Pa., in Philadelphia in two weeks.

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Cleveland won, 3 to 2, from the Pittsburgh hockey team.

It'll have you off your seats—riding all the way.

MITCHELL HURTS SHOULDER; BOUT WITH DUNDEE OFF

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The boxing commission Friday ordered the cancellation of the Richie Mitchell-Johnny Dundee fight slated for Monday night. An injured shoulder sustained in the Charlie White fight by Mitchell was responsible. Mitchell jerked the shoulder in training Thursday and had to quit work. The commission heard of the accident and ordered an examination Friday. Two physicians agreed that Mitchell was not in shape to go on. The question of providing a substitute will be discussed at a meeting Saturday morning. If none is secured the bout will be postponed until Jan. 29.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Johnny Mendelsohn was selected to substitute for Richie Mitchell in a bout with Johnny Dundee to be held at Milwaukee, January 8. It was reported Mitchell's bruised shoulder would prevent his appearing.

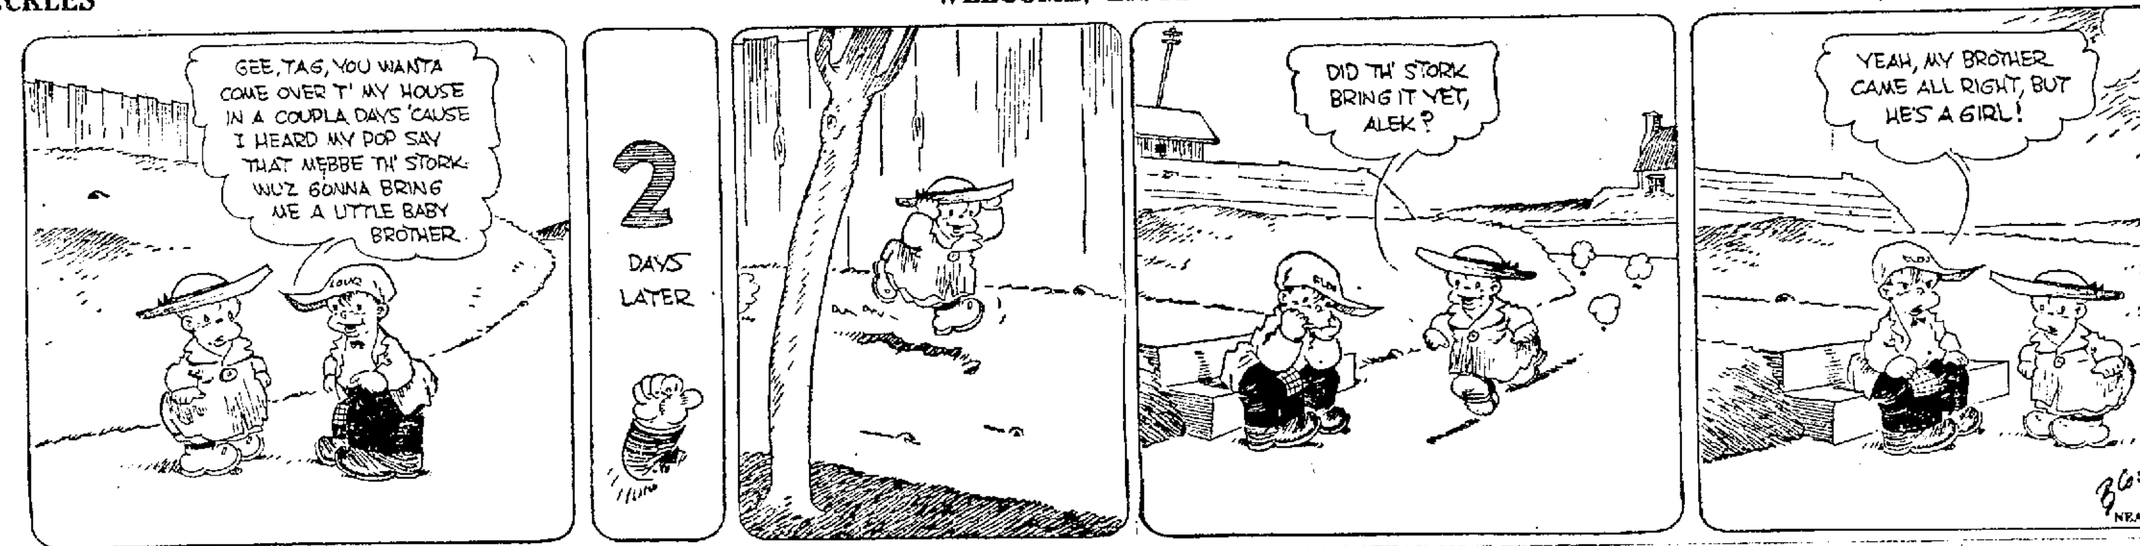
FRECKLES WELCOME, LITTLE STRANGER BY BLOSSER



SAW NO ABUSE OF HERRIN CAPTIVES WITNESSES CLAIM

Defense Produces Alibi Testimony in Effort to Prove Accused Men Were Not in Mob

MARION, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Seven defense witnesses at the trial of five men in connection with the Herrin riots, testified Saturday that they had seen the dead march of six non-union men through Herrin.

All of them were positive that they had seen no weapons of any kind, and that there had been no abuse of the captives as asserted by state's witnesses.

All of the witnesses said the members of the crowd were all strangers and they could not describe any individual.

Thirteen witnesses testified Friday they had seen the six prisoners marched through Herrin toward the cemetery where they were shot down on the morning of June 22 and all united in saying that they had not seen a single one of the defendants in the crowd following the captives.

Before the beginning of the alibi testimony the defense had called fifty other witnesses who had testified to various acts of aggression on the part of the armed guards at the Lester mine, ranging from highway robbery to shooting into a crowd of miners approaching the mine in an effort to obtain a peaceful withdrawal of the workers.

SEEK NEW TRIAL FOR MAN CONVICTED OF BOMBING PIPE LINE

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Attorneys for the defense in the trial of Luigi Turbessi, miner, found guilty by a jury Friday on the charge of bombing the Chapin Air Pipe Line early on the morning of May 10, 1921, will file a motion for a new trial next Monday, it has been announced. If the court over-rules the motion, it is believed the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

It is expected that a motion for a new trial will be based on the arrest of Felix La Brock, saloonkeeper, who was arrested on a charge of selling liquor to a juror.

MILWAUKEE YOUTH ASLEEP FOR WEEK

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Moses Perlson, 14, Milwaukee, has been asleep since January 1. He is at a local hospital and his peculiar case has aroused the interest of several physicians. The young man has been existing on liquid foods, which he is forced to receive at intervals. Doctors said that Perlson talked occasionally and was semi-conscious until Monday. Since then he has been partly aroused only a few times. He will swallow food after it is placed in his mouth.

OBITUARY

HOLLISTER S. PHILLIPS

Hollister S. Phillips, Civil war veteran and sheriff of La Crosse county in 1875 and 1876, died at his home in Galesville in his eighty-fourth year.

Mr. Phillips came to La Crosse county from Kenosha in 1855. He enlisted in the Eighth Wisconsin Infantry in 1861. He rose from a private to first lieutenant and in his last days of service he was in command of his company.

He was married in 1864 to Marion Gage in West Salem. He was the oldest member of the West Salem lodge of Masons. At the close of the war he came to La Crosse county and engaged in farming near West Salem. He was elected sheriff of this county in 1875. The family moved to Galesville in 1899. He is survived by his wife, four sons and two daughters.

JOHN M. BENRUD

John M. Benrud, a prominent merchant of Galesville for many years, died at his home in that city after an illness of a few days, at the age of 55. He was a director of the Farmers and Merchants State bank and a member of the Galesville Commercial club. Surviving are his wife, two brothers and three sisters.

CHARLES HERMAN VOSS

Charles Herman Voss, residing in the town of New Hartford, Winona county, Minn., died Friday at his home at 6:45 a. m., after an illness of one year of a complication of diseases.

Mr. Voss was born in the Province Pommernin, Germany, January 12, 1864. He came to America 46 years ago, and for the last 22 years has resided on the farm where he died. He was 58 years old at the time of his death. The surviving relatives are his wife Mrs. Martha Voss, his aged father, Mr. August Voss of Dakota, Minn., three sons and one daughter, one brother, one grandchild and one nephew. They are Arthur Voss, La Crosse; Walter and Arnold, and the nephew, Cleo Pappenfuss, at home; the daughter, Mrs. Adam Stoehr, Nodine; the brother, Mr. Julius Voss, Dakota, Minn.; his sister, Mrs. Frank Marg, Dakota, Minn.; the grandchild, Earl Voss, La Crosse. His mother, Mrs. Caroline Voss, died on August 1 last.

Funeral services will be held from the home Sunday at 11 o'clock and at the German Lutheran church at Nodine at 11:30. Rev. Arnold Eichman will officiate. Interment will be in the Lutheran cemetery at Nodine.

DELAVAN J. WILLIAMS

The funeral of Delavan J. Williams, who died Friday after a lingering illness, will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Sletten & Dahl funeral parlors. Rev. C. R. Shaver will officiate and interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

ANNUAL GAME WITH ALUMNI BASKETEERS TONIGHT AT H. S.

Oldtimers Expected to Give Keogan's Five Hot Basket Battle

The annual clash between the high school basketeers and a fast and experienced team chosen from the alumni will take place at the Hixon gymnasium at 8:15 this evening. A preliminary game between the high school seconds and Abe Skaff's invincible five will draw the curtain at 7:30 sharp.

Although the alumni line-up for this year is not known, the quintet is sure to furnish Keogan's warriors some hot competition, as all the members of the alumni squad have at one time or another defended the Red and Black at the cage game, so fans can expect to see a fast and clever aggregation representing the alumni tonight.

Keogan's proteges, on the other hand, are prepared to play an altogether different style of play than exhibited in the first tilt of the season. A slight change in line-up will occur due to the ineligibility of Bewget, who played at a guard position in the first game. During the last week of practice, which has been none too easy and gruelling, Saltz, a candidate for one of the forward positions, received an injury to his hip which may keep him out of the game for a short time. It is expected that a majority of the first string members will have an opportunity to get into the battle tonight. And all are prepared to give an exhibition of systematic basket play.

Tells of Finding Bodies

Nettles testified he had found the bodies on the morning of Dec. 22, when he went to Lake La Fourche to take in fishing lines he had placed here the previous night.

"I went there to get in my boat and there was Watt Daniels' body floating within three feet of the shore," said Nettles. "I knew Richards' body was somewhere near and so I looked, and I saw it floating about forty feet away. I went to Oakridge and telephoned to the mayor of Mer Rouge that I had found the bodies."

"How did you know the first body you found was that of Watt Daniels?" asked Attorney General Coco.

"I know it by the clothes," Nettles said.

"I saw the clothes on him were the same Daniels wore the day I saw him at the barbecue (the day of the 'hooded mob' murders.) I had several drinks with him and I knew him well."

Negroes Are Barred

An attempt to get Jim Ellingson, a negro, to take the witness stand revealed the fact that negroes have been barred from the court room.

"We allow no negroes in this court room," said Judge Odom.

Capt. W. W. Cooper, commander of a national guard company on duty at Mer Rouge, was the next witness. He testified the bodies of Daniels and Richards had been turned over to him at Lake La Fourche.

McKoin at Monroe

MONROE, La.—By the Associated Press.—Dr. B. M. McKoin, accompanied by two officers, arrived here Friday afternoon from Baltimore and went to his family residence. The physician, former mayor of Mer Rouge, voluntarily returned to Louisiana after charges of murder lodged against him in connection with the Morehouse kidnaping and murders were lifted.

A 2,200-acre fox farm has been started near Wrangell, Alaska.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK.—Speculators for the decline launched another attack in today's stock market, forcing material recessions in a number of popular industrial shares. Professional interests, who had supported the market yesterday offered less resistance this morning, more consideration apparently being paid to the possible consequences of the French-British disagreement over German reparations. Nash Motors broke 10 points and losses of two to three points were sustained by Studebaker, Baldwin, Consolidated Gas, Chandler, Gulf States Steel, Standard Oil of California, and National Enameling. The close was heavy. Sales 540,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat took a downward swing in price Saturday during the early dealings, most commission houses having orders to sell, and demand being limited to small speculators. The reparations crisis, large primary receipts and comparative smallness of export business were leading bearish factors. Opening quotations, which ranged from ⅜c decline to a like advance with May $1.18½ to $1.18¾ and July $1.11¼, were followed by a setback all around to well below Friday's finish.

Assertions that country offerings of wheat in Kansas were becoming scarce tended to rally the market a little in the last part of the day. Prices closed unsettled, ⅛ to 1c net lower, May $1.17⅝ to $1.18 and July $1.10⅝ to ¾.

Corn fell with wheat. After opening ⅛c off to ⅛c up May 71¼c the market underwent a decided general sag.

Subsequently evidence that other markets were out bidding Chicago for corn shipments led to something of a recovery in prices here. the close was steady, ⅜ to ½c net decline. May 70⅝c.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c higher, May 44⅛ and 44⅛c and later showed losses on all active months.

Provisions were firmer.

ICE HARVEST STARTS

The ice harvest will start in earnest next week, Elmer Warninger of the People's Ice and Fuel company said this morning that his crew would start cutting ice on the Mississippi opposite the houses at the foot of Division street Monday morning. The ice is now fourteen inches thick and should be at least 15 inches deep by Monday.

POWER COMPANY GETS ORDER FOR HIGHER RATES

SUPERIOR, Wis.—A temporary restraining order was granted the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light & Power company by Judge C. Z. Luse in federal district court here Saturday against the Wisconsin railroad commission's rate fixing order.

The power company Friday made petition for an injunction claiming that the returns now realized from their sale of light and power in the three cities, Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, and Menominee, is too small in proportion to the capital invested because of the rates fixed by the state commission.

Public Debate

THE BOYS' SIDE

Editor, Tribune:

C. E. B. in the public debate column, has referred to the "insulting conversation of males young or not so young, whose conception of manliness seems to be unfaithfulness, hard-boiled language, and copious libations of moonshine," from which opinion I infer that she must associate with these kinds of fellows. The old saying goes: "Birds of a feather flock together." It is very unfortunate that C. E. B. has not come in contact with the better type of manhood; for undoubtedly her opinion of the La Crosse boys would then suffer alteration.

E. D. E. holds the opinion that "there are a few of the right kind of fellows in La Crosse," her opinion of the "right kind" being a young man who is willing to spend his hard-earned cash on the women. If this is true, the basic cause is that there are very few "real" girls in this city. Girls who lament the fact that fellows do not spend a fortune on them are necessarily "leg-pullers," affected with the "give me" disease. The twentieth century fellows are educated, are too wise, E. D. E. They are looking for girls that hold the personal qualities of a man paramount, not his pocketbook.

The foremost educators in the country agree that the actions of the young men are due to the conduct of the girls. Therefore, C. E. B. and E. D. E., I suggest that you do not criticize the fellows, for the blame does not lie with them. Besides, there is a great treasure of the manly type in La Crosse, and all of them are not found in dance halls, either.

V. HENRY WILLIAMS.

JOB FOR FIREMEN

La Crosse, Jan. 6, 1923.

Editor, Tribune—

It seems to the writer that the watering equipment at the Pettibone Skating rink is deplorably inadequate, because it takes an exceedingly long time to flood the skating surface with the little Evinrude motor in use there. If there is an obsolete fire engine in the City of La Crosse, that could be spared for that purpose, the work of flooding that skating surface, I believe, could be accomplished in about an hour's time.

Another thing: A skating surface of that kind should not be flooded; it should be sprayed; and it could not be better accomplished than with a fire house and nozzle. In other words, they should not see much water they can put on the surface, but rather how little. The less water used, the better will be the skating surface.

A SKATING ENTHUSIAST

Very Transparent Insect

The water flea is so transparent that every organ of his body can be seen under a microscope.

Reptiles are fond of new paint and grease along the railroads.

More than 1,000,000 boxes of apples moved from the Columbia river and Puget Sound by water to Europe in 1921.

ESCANABA MAN GETS WORD OF SAFETY OF MOTHER IN TURKEY

ESCANABA, Mich.—Glad New Years' news was received here by Steve Trekes, a local barber, from his mother who fled the Turks devastated Smyrna and who he had mourned as dead. She is alive on Mitylene Island, the letter informed him. With her are a married daughter and a seventeen-year-old son.

The letter, written by Trekes' mother in September, tells of conditions in the refugee camp. She said they were given a daily bread ration by the Greek government and many are suffering from exposure in the season of rain. Many, she added, found shelter in old barns and basements.

Mrs. Trekes wrote that she had not received money sent to her by her son and explained that there is nothing on the island to buy with money.

GIRL RELINQUISHES FORTUNE TO MARRY MAN OF HER CHOICE

KENOSHA, Wis.—Love triumphed here Saturday when announcement was made that Miss Marian Kline, the heiress who several weeks ago was alleged to have been held a prisoner at her uncle's farm to prevent her marriage, had been married at Waukegan to Harry Quandt, local carpenter contractor and a member of the board of education. Since the postponement of her wedding several weeks ago, a quit claim deed to her share in the estate had been filed by Miss Kline in favor of her mother for "$1 and other valuable considerations." It is now intimated that this included her right to wed the man of her choice.

WOMAN SENTENCED

DES MOINES, Ia.—Mary Fraze former city park department secretary, was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from one to seven years in the Rockwell City Reformatory by District Judge Thompson Saturday. Miss Fraze was convicted by a jury several weeks ago on charges of obtaining city money under false pretenses.

Miss Fraze's bond was fixed at $7,500 pending an appeal to the state supreme court.

GRAIN ACT UP TO COURT

FARGO, N. D.—The question of the constitutionality of the North Dakota grain grading act, adopted at the November election, Saturday rests with the United States supreme court.

CHILDREN CHASED BY WOLF PACK ARE SAVED BY DOGS

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis.—Chased by a pack of wolves while on their way home from school, four children of Antone Dodge and Wenzel Paresli, living near Jump River, thirty miles north of here, were saved by two dogs belonging to Paresli.

The dogs heard the pack howling when almost upon the children about a half mile from their homes and went in pursuit, arriving in time to drive the pack away. One of the dogs was bitten by a wolf during the struggle.

Reports from settlers in the northern counties say that wolves are doing great damage to stock, especially sheep. Counties will be confronted with claims for the loss of stock when county boards meet in the spring.

MAN WHO FOUNDED SOLON SPRINGS IS DEAD IN MILL CITY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Thomas F. Solon, 69, founder of Solon Springs, Wis., and former postmaster of Superior, died Thursday night at the home of Milton J. Solon, a son, here.

Twenty-five years ago, while excavating for a summer home at Lake St. Croix, he discovered several springs and started the Solon Springs Water company. Later he was in business at Watertown, Wis., and Duluth, Minn.

Three sons and five daughters survive. Burial will be at Solon Springs.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

THE OUTLOOK
BY BERTON BRALEY

There is a bunch of cynics
Who take a view of life
Like medicos in clinics
About to use the knife;
They see naught but diseases
And ills of every style,
Till not a prospect pleases
And everything is vile!

And if with spirit joyous
We laugh away the pains
And troubles that annoy us,
The cynic then maintains,
In accents far from gentle,
That such an attitude
Is "sickly sentimental,"
And very, very crude.

If thinking love and kindness
Are found more often than
Greed, hate and cruel blindness
Within the heart of man—
If that's the cynic's model
Of "vain, romantic bosh
And sentimental twaddle,"
I'm guilty then, b'gosh!

He sees life bleak—so be it;
He's welcome to his view,
But why ask me to see it
In gloomy colors, too?
Oh well, I'll let him vent all
His spleen, the dreary clam!
He calls me "sentimental,"
I'll tell the world I am!

BOOK OF JOB IS EXPLAINED HERE AT THE Y. W. C. A.

Announced that Matinee Will be Given Thursday Afternoon at the Theater

Members of the general committee of the La Crosse County Community Council in charge of the presentation here next Thursday afternoon and night of Stuart Walker's "Book of Job" met at the Y. W. C. A. Friday afternoon to hear a description of the play by S. I. Conner, who is representing the playwright here.

Mr. Conner in his description of the piece, explained the manner of its presentation and told the committee members many interesting little things which appear during the production, all of which will add to the enjoyment of the piece when it is seen. Picture effects are emphasized all the way through, said Mr. Conner, and the special lighting appliances are arranged to blend perfectly with the scenic effects.

The committee announced for the first time Friday afternoon that a matinee of the "Book of Job" will be given Thursday. The matinee is designed particularly for the school children of the city, and for others who for any reason will find it impossible to attend the evening performance. The tickets are finding, on the whole, a ready sale, and many mail order reservations have already been made. General reservations at the box office of the theater will not be made until Monday morning.

"The Book of Job"

Actually this magnificent poem has been given an imaginative presentation worthy of the content, and we assume first credit must be given to Stuart Walker for the conception and direction, though it is hard to draw a line of demarkation in bestowing praise between Walker's projected unit and the really inspired portrayal of the character of Job by George Somnes. . . . . Of Somnes' Job it is hard to speak without becoming fulsome. In voice, which is cello-like in its sombre vibrance, in gesture which is as definite and graceful as a master of pantomime, in makeup and costume, and in the sympathetic reading of the lines, he is the epitome of the Job of our imagination. . . .

It may be that you like a critical summary encompassed in a few well chosen words. Those were offered by the young woman who sat beside me in the theater. "That, my dear, is poetry; and not mimic singing either."—E. M. G. Chicago Journal of Commerce, Dec. 28, 1922.

MELLON OPPOSES ISSUE OF FURTHER TAX EXEMPT BONDS

WASHINGTON.—Urging adoption of a constitutional amendment to prohibit further issuance of tax exempt securities, Secretary Mellon, in a letter presented Friday to the house declared the tax exempt privilege with the facility it gives to borrowing "leads in many cases to uncertainty or wasteful public expenditures," which in turn bring about a "menacing increase in the debts of the states and nation."

NURSE WINS CASE AGAINST MERCHANT IN WINONA COURT

Miss Emma Frey to Get $5,000 of O. J. McManus for Her Child

WINONA, Minn.—Action of a jury in the district court of Winona county in awarding a verdict of $5,000 to Miss Emma Frey, a nurse, in her damage suit against O. J. McManus, former local merchant, was upheld by the supreme court of Minnesota in a decision filed today.

Miss Frey sued for $25,000 damages, alleging that a child had been born to her as a result of an assault committed by McManus, and that her health had been injured.

Miss Frey testified that the act was committed against her will and without her consent. She further asserted that McManus had paid her marked attention for several years and had led her to believe he intended to make her his wife. McManus denied that he ever acted without Mis Frey's consent.

A jury at the April term of district court awarded Miss Frey a verdict of $5,000. Judge C. E. Callaghan denied a motion by counsel for McManus for a favorable judgment or new trial, holding that the verdict of the jury was justified by the evidence and was not excessive.

Appeal to High Court

Counsel for McManus appealed the case to the supreme court, contending that the court had erred in several respects in charging the jury, and that the jury had been actuated by passion and prejudice.

Justice James Quinn, in handing down the supreme court decision, declared that "we find no indication anywhere in the record of any prejudice or bias on the part of the jury. . . . The charge when taken as a whole was as favorable to the defendant as he had right to expect. We discover no reversible error therein."

The higher court, in another portion of the decision, declared that "the verdict is amply supported by the evidence."

Miss Frey was represented by Judge James J. Fitzpatrick of Winona and R. S. Cowie of La Crosse, while Lamberton, Lamberton & Murphy were counsel for McManus.

McManus, who disposed of his store here and certain other property previous to the trial, has since been engaged as traveling salesman for a shoe manufacturing concern, with headquarters at Waterloo, Iowa.
